

Weathervane Press

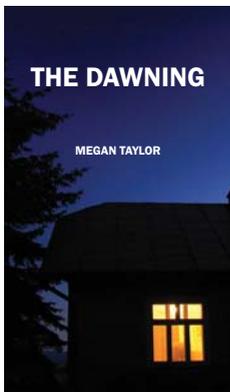

ATTENTION DEFICIT – NIGEL PICKARD

‘Attention Deficit,’ the story of a teacher in one of our toughest comprehensives, is about far more than education, as the parallel narratives of Harry, the teacher and Lewis, an excluded student on his final last chance, reveal.

Nigel Pickard’s intelligent prose is always utterly convincing. ‘Attention Deficit’ is a fast-paced, provocative and, at times, very funny exploration of what happens when your life begins to get away from you.

‘Attention Deficit’ is Nigel Pickard’s second novel. The much acclaimed ‘One’ was published by Bookcase Editions in 2005. Fiction paperback 244pp. ISBN 978 0 9562193 5 0 £7.99

THE DAWNING – MEGAN TAYLOR

It is New Year’s Eve, a time for fresh beginnings – but for each member of the fragmenting Haywood family, this night could mark the end.

Set against a backdrop of wintry beauty on the edge of a Peak District town, ‘The Dawning’ explores the danger that can arise, even at the heart of a family, over the course of one dark night.

‘The Dawning’ is Megan Taylor’s second novel. ‘How We Were Lost’ was published by Flame Books in 2007.

Both novels demonstrate her ability to create characters we believe in and care about, and bring them vibrantly to life on the page.

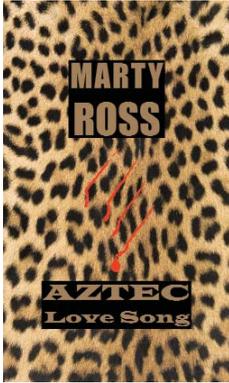

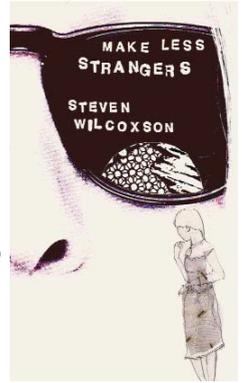

Fiction paperback 220pp. ISBN 978 0 9562193 4 3 £7.99

MAKE LESS STRANGERS – STEVEN WILCOXSON

With its fractured, almost cinematic structure, this witty, intelligent story cuts rapidly between characters as they tell how their lives collide in the endless happy hour of sex, self harm and substance abuse that was early noughties Nottingham's club culture.

Fiction paperback 174pp. ISBN 978 0 9562193 3 6

£7.99

AZTEC LOVE SONG – MARTY ROSS

Aztec Love Song is the fiction debut of Marty Ross, who has chilled and thrilled listeners with radio dramas such as Radio 4's 'The Darker Side of the Border,' and BBC 7's 'Ghost Zone' and 'Catch my Breath.' Now his flair for suspense and psychological drama explodes onto the page as the dangerous passions of this noir thriller shatter the serenity of a genteel Glasgow suburb.

Fiction paperback 286pp. ISBN 978 0 9563193 2 9

£7.99

I love Samuel Taylor – IAN COLLINSON

Suddenly everything seems to be falling into place in a life that has been on hold when long suffering Jess Beresford finally discovers love in the most unlikely of circumstances. She has found the missing ingredient, but can she hang on to it....?

Fiction paperback 270pp. ISBN 978 0 9563193 0 5

£7.99

Ian Collinson

© Ian Collinson 2005

Exciting new fiction – made in Nottingham

www.weathervanepress.co.uk